As time passes, seasons change. The spring of life is marked by carefree naivete, childish innocence, and eager discovery.

Spring passes into summer, a season of youthful exuberance. Enthusiasm characterizes this time of life, and an untiring energy.

Saxon Pride

It comes down
To the final show.
We were great,
They all know.

We've been through pain,
We've been through cheers.
But who will remember
In twenty-five years?

The trial, the error,
The toil and sweat.
The hot August sun,
The memories and regret.

We wish we'd done better.
Or wish to do it again.
We'd like to go back
To the places we've been.

Powerful and weak,
Together and apart
We all played the same game,
We all had the same start.

We came so close,
Oh, so near.
Where are we now?
Just here!

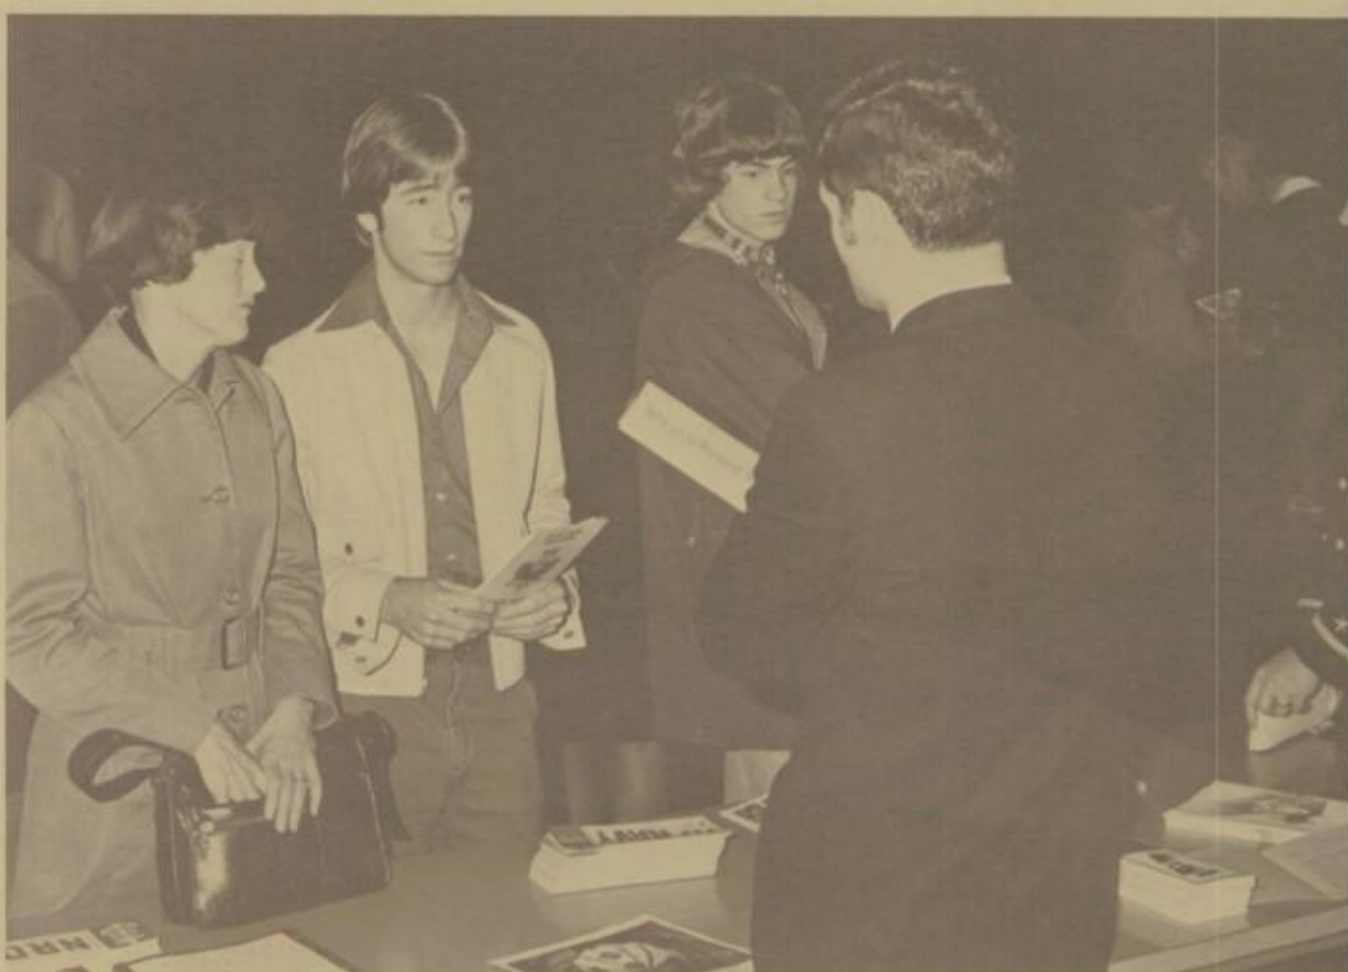

We've got one last chance
To show what we could have been,
For many must go on
And leave the rest to try again.

Through all the adversity
There's one thing that hasn't died.
It shall be forever with us:
Our Saxon pride.

James Scott Oliver

Late summer brings a maturity, play acting in roles that are soon to be reality. Evident are a growing wisdom and a seriousness about life ahead.

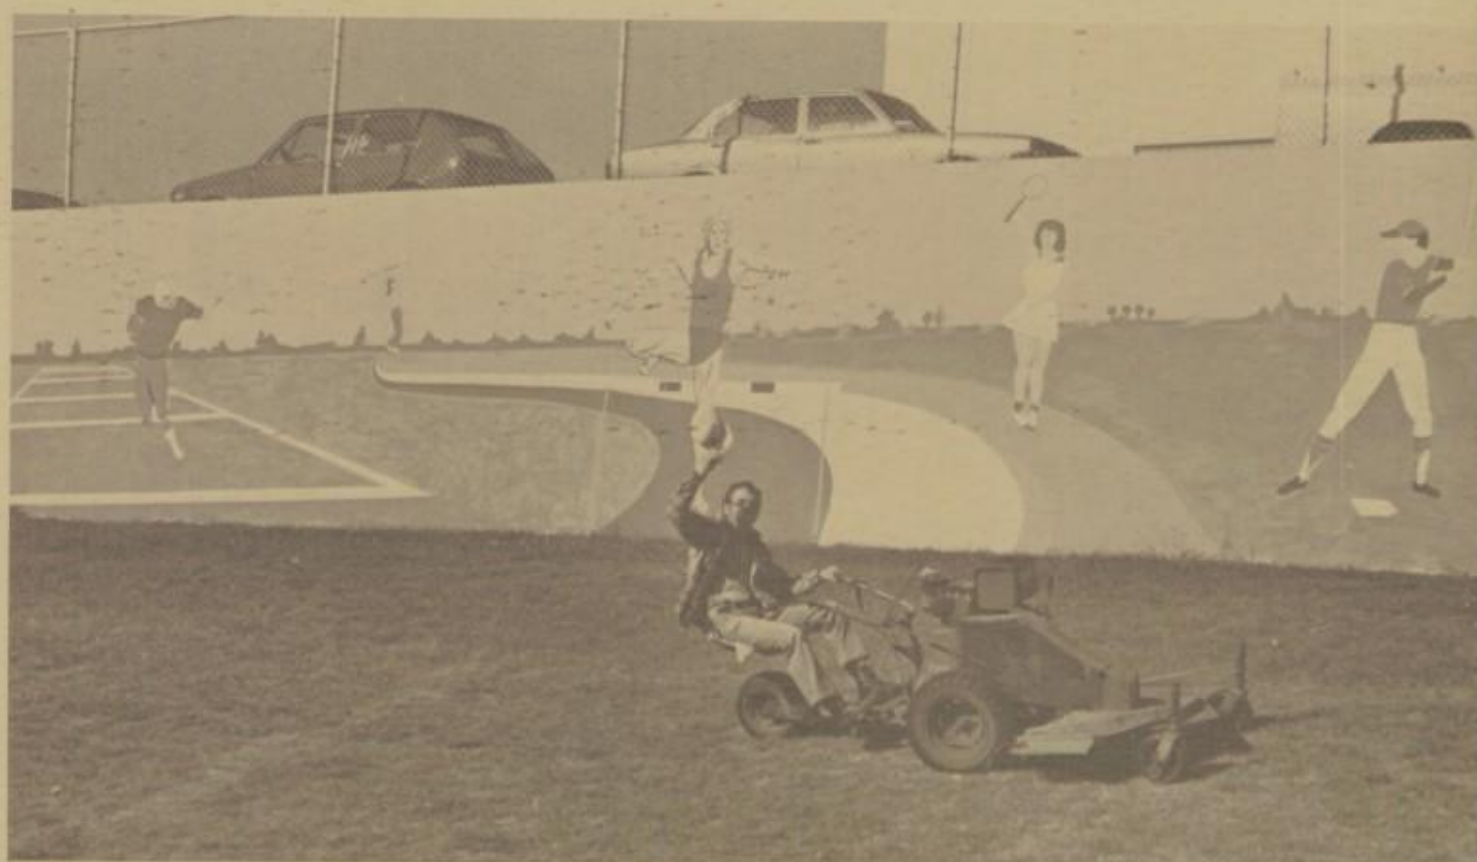

We made it through fall!
Yes we did one and all!
While taming the shrew
In courage we grew.
The laughter and happiness
Bundled all in, hoping
The mighty Saxons would win!
Buying a hat from F.B.L.A.,
Thankfully seeing snow the next day.
Well we did have fun, I'm sure of that--

When out of the locker came the "mew" of a cat,
And a forgotten report card laying
With the disease of the "F" decaying.
Well pack your things and let's go on Down the "path of memories."
With your mind one year older
And your heart a little bolder,
Toward the future some day.

Amy Albrich

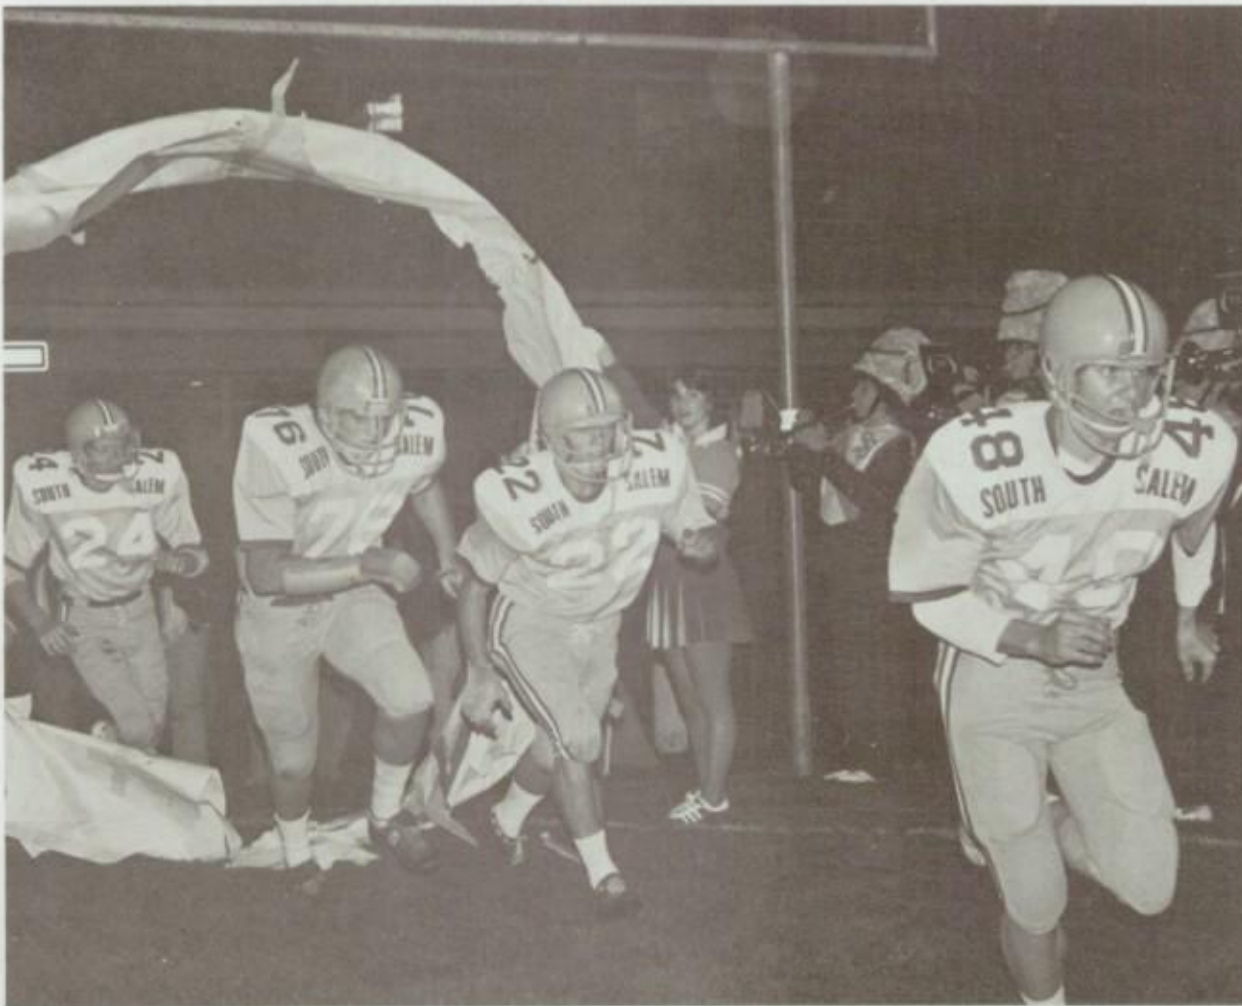

As we travel down the road of life, we experience things we may never feel again. With this in mind we present a brief picture of a once-upon-a-time part of life, the year at a glance.

Saxons Rally To 6-3 Record . . .

The 1977-78 Saxon football squad once again compiled a winning record under the direction of third year Coach Dave Johnson.

The Saxons finished the season at six wins and three losses. This record was good for a third place finish in the Valley League. Coach Johnson was very pleased with the season but stated, "Our goal at the start of the season was to make the playoffs, but I still feel that we played well and that made the season a success." The Saxons barely missed a playoff spot when they lost a heartbreaker to Corvallis, 7-6.

South turned in many fine performances, but the Sprague game stuck out in Coach Johnson's mind as the highlight. "I feel this game was the highlight," mentioned Johnson, "because it helped make up for what they did to us the year before." South was beaten by the Olys 42-0, but came back to clobber them by a 49-15 count this year.

Everyone on the team contributed 100%, but coach Johnson singled out these players for their extra effort: Steve Schmitz and Trace Hart shared the Most Improved award; Jeff Long was cited as the Most Valuable; while Rod Jones and Tony Oliver received the Most Inspirational players award. Coach Johnson concluded, "while there were those who received awards, I feel it was a team effort and the success of the team can be attributed to everyone on the team."

J.V.'s Tie For District

For the third consecutive season Head Coach Greg Marks pulled out another 7 win, 1 loss record which again put the South J.V. team at the top.

Coach Marks was really pleased at the way the kids came together from four different junior high schools. He commented, "Defensively we played outstandingly." Coach Marks also said, "We started 36 different kids," and that was out of a 45 man roster.

Todd Eschelman, Elpidio Bumanlag, and Jim Newell were said to be the key players of the offensive unit. Each one of these players were a part of the backfield. Adding to their success were lineman Mike Lee, Brent Culver, Dan Lewitzke, Tom Kraus, and Del McCormick.

Defensively George Long, Mark Philp, Robert Cary, and Jeff Paschke were a big help to their outstanding squad. Dave Bigej, Jean Savard, Dale Weideman, Tony Pasternick, and Scott Mattson all played an important part in the defense.

Coach Marks and Coach Larry Hayward were all in all very pleased with the season and with the team.

Cross Country Shows Talent

The South Salem Cross Country team successfully defended their title as district champions.

Under Head Coach Ron Cross the Saxon harriers compiled a four win, no loss dual meet record while winning two tournaments and grabbing a second in another. The nucleus of the team centered around Jeff Hildebrandt and Clancy Devery, two high school All-Americans. Dan Laughlin, Dan Gossack, and Mike McCormick rounded out the rest of the squad that won the district title and nabbed a fourteenth placing at the state tournament. With only two graduating seniors from the varsity the saxons looked good to repeat as district champs again.

The girls' team on the other hand did not fare as well as the boys but did turn in many fine performances. Some of the more promising runners were Debbie Kynytch, Judy Sommer, Cindy Peter, Laurie Moeck, and Dianna Pickens. The girls' team was also young.

Varsity Volleyballers Improve Performances

Under the direction of new teacher and coach to South, Mr. Terry McLaughlin, the girls Varsity Volleyball team had a season record of 9 wins and 7 losses. Practicing 5 days a week in the main gym, with Coach McLaughlin's 3 years previous coaching experience with the United States Volleyball association, the team was strong.

Starters and key players as sophomores included Stacey Wipf, Kelly McGhehey, and Kim Cantonwine. Janell Ediger and Deltra Ferguson were junior starters, while Dawni Boone, Helen Koopman and Jeanette Youngman also saw their share of the action.

Coach McLaughlin stated, "I'm proud of the way the team picked up skills and how they played especially well in the second half of the season."

J.V.s Tie For Second

With a season record of 12 wins and 4 losses, the J.V. team was "competitive and very strong in the league, placing in a tie for second with Corvallis," stated coach Terry McLaughlin. Tina Ordonez and Kelly Buntjer set well for the team all year while Ruth Neufeld, Jennifer Matthey, Dana Wilkerson, Libby Swindells, and Kathy McKinley traded responsibilities as best hitters in different matches. Gymnasts Take 3rd In District After A Strong Season

"The team had a very tough year but they've gained a lot of experience," said Mr. Morrie Jiminez, coach of the mens' gymnastics team. Apparently the team needed the experience, since only four members, Steve Anderson, Dave Brutsch, Dave Mitton (seniors), and Ron Tuff (junior) had the experience of competing on the team before.

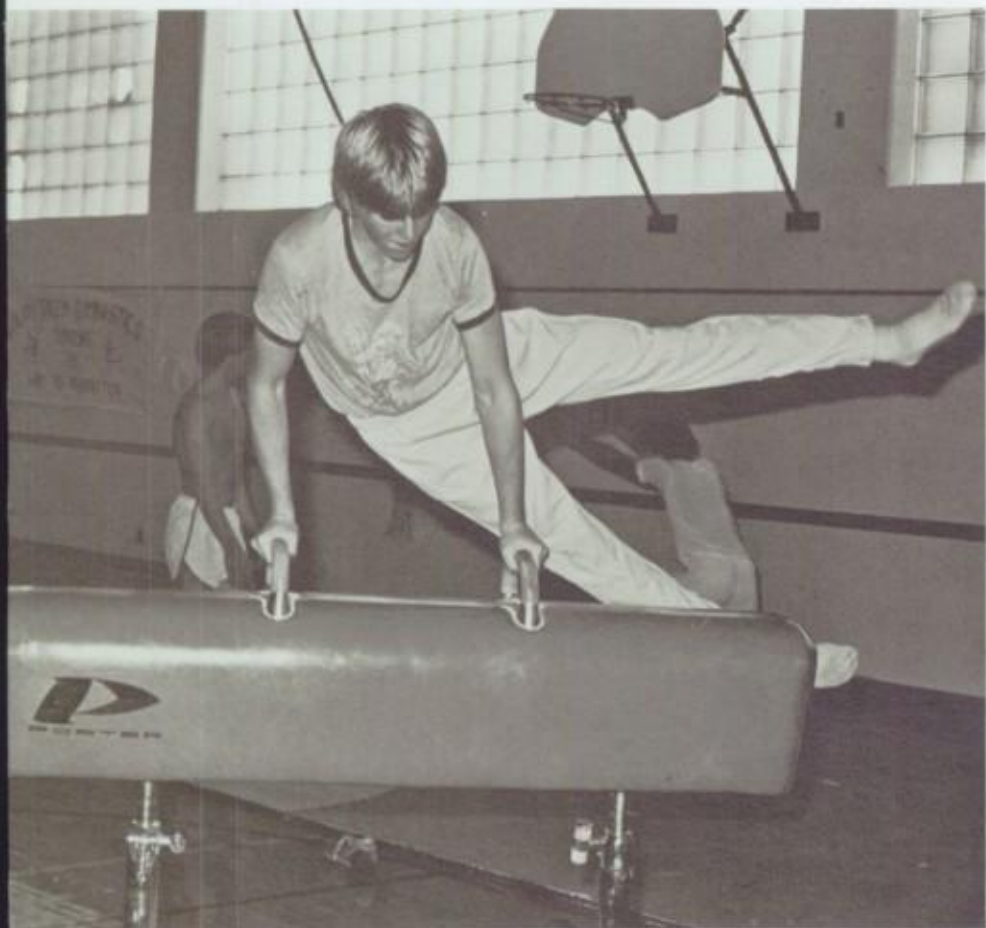

The gymnasts had a 1-6, win-loss record and placed third in district. Steve Anderson, and Dave Brutsch both qualified for the state meet. Steve qualified by taking a second on the parallel bars and Dave qualified by taking a third on the floor exercise and on the vault.

"The team would like to thank our assistant coach, John House, for working with the team," said Coach Jiminez. "The men on the team all contributed greatly and I was very pleased with their attitude and spirit all through the season."

Girls Gymnastics Gain Experience Through Tough Season

The girls' gymnastics team of the 1977-78 school year had a disappointing season. They finished with a 3-7 win-loss record. It was consoling to know that several meets were lost within a few points. Against Corvallis, for example, South held the lead most of the meet, but in the closing events Corvallis went ahead by a slim margin and won by less than a point.

In the district meet, South took eighth place. Lisa Aasen qualified for the state meet in the semi-finals but was edged out in the finals. Her qualifying score was 7.1.

The team was a young team which consisted of mostly sophomores and juniors. Only two members, Tori Peters and Lisa Aasen, returned from last year.

"The girls really worked hard and I think it really showed," Coach Bob Huddleston commented. "I think we really learned a lot from the beginning of the season and improved our skills greatly."

Seniors Take Powderpuff Title

With the sky overcast and gray, wind nippy and the temperature in the low 40's, the two game Powderpuff football season was underway.

The Juniors didn't fare so well, as the Sophomores knocked them out in the first round of action with a score of 8 to 6.

Earning their way to the big game against the Seniors, the Sophomores were ready to play. The Seniors however, coached by Trace Hart, Jeff Darby, Jim Hammer, and David Westphal came out the victors in a rumble ending up 8 to 0. "The coaches really tried hard for the five days of practice they had. They were very understanding with us and our capabilities," stated Helen Koopman. "They practiced plays, drills, and a lot of running. It was really fun."

United Way Fundraising Attempt Is Disappointing

The week of November 21 through 25 was devoted to raising money for the United Way. Donations were taken in first period classes with the school totaling a disappointing $90. The chairman of South's committee, Jimmy Wiles, said, "It's really too bad, these funds go to a very good cause." The funds raised by the United Way went to non-profit organizations throughout Salem.

Spirit Week Is Rowdy

Preparations for spirit week began long before the actual event occurred. Some of these preparations included planning of the activities for the week itself, painting signs, and designing hall decorations for the stairway competition. Each class was given a stairway for this competition, and long hours were spent decorating prior to the judging. Seniors took the coveted first prize, with juniors and sophomores tying for second.

Activities during the week itself were as various as they were creative. Monday opened the week "ribbon in your afro" day; everyone was invited to curl or frizz their hair and wear a bow in their 'fro. Other special days included "sports shirt" and "jersey" days, "sign your tee-shirt" day, and the traditional "red and blue" day. Noon competitions were held each day, the first of these lunch time activities was an infamous center hall serenade by the senior girls. Others included a concert by the jazz band, and a worm relay.

Homecoming was the culmination of the week. Activities to celebrate included mums, an assembly, a parade before the game, the homecoming court during half-time, and an after game dance with music provided by "Rigamorol".

According to Cindy Peter, who organized the entire week, "Spirit week was a big success. We got lots of neat comments from teachers and students."

There's no place like home, and no better way to celebrate coming home than the way the Saxons did it. Festivities started at the beginning of spirit week to get people excited for the "big game"; Friday was naturally the highlight of the week. Activities on homecoming day included mums for favorite guys and girls, a special assembly giving recognition to football players, cross country runners, volleyball players, gymnasts, and returning alumni.

The evening activities included a parade consisting of the marching band and anyone else who wanted to participate. Cars and pick-ups were decorated for the occasion, and many people returned soggy but jubilant. The game against North was victorious, Saxons skunked the Vikings 18-0. During half-time the court was presented; Cindy Reason was crowned as the new homecoming queen. After the game a dance was held in the east balcony, featuring the band "Rig-amorol".

Shakespeare's 'Taming Of The Shrew' Proves To Be A Big Hit

During the nights of November 17th, 18th, and 19th, many people from around Salem enjoyed another of South's drama productions: "Taming of the Shrew."

Many weeks of careful planning and rehearsing went into the play. Rehearsals started in late September and continued until opening night. The play was directed by Mrs. Phyllis Quanbeck and the student directors, Shannon Loch and Lisa Lindburg.

The hardest thing about learning "Taming of the Shrew" was the difficulty of the Old English language and making the audience understand by gestures. The actors also had to speak unusually clear to prevent the audience from thinking they were mumbling.

Many committees were formed outside of the actual cast. Refreshments with Chris Clabby as chairman provided goodies at intermission. Publicity, headed by Jeanne Jackson, distributed posters and flyers throughout Salem to promote the play.

"I am very grateful to the cast and crew. All through the play I never heard any gripes," said Mrs. Quanbeck.

AS SEASONS CHANGE

SO DO WINTER ACTIVITIES

Undefeated Boys Take District And Girls Finish 7th Out Of 14 Teams

"Swimmers up, take your marks, BANG!" And they're off. The South Salem swimmers splash their way to another victory.

The boys team was very strong this year. They had a perfect season with a 7-0, win-loss, record. The team also swam their way to first place in the district meet, ahead of fourteen other teams competing. In addition to taking district, eight South swimmers went to the state meet. Senior John Wilbur swam in the 50 yard freestyle and the 100 yard butterfly events. One of the outstanding swimmers that qualified for state was Scott Kerr, a ninth grader at Walker Junior High. Scott competed in the 200 yard individual medley and the 100 yard freestyle. Two relay teams also went to state. The 200 yard relay was swam by Eric Miller, Steve Kirkpatrick- another ninth grader at Walker, Steve Johnson, and Gary Veteto. John McDonald, Zac Snow, John Wilbur, and Scott Kerr swam in the 400 yard freestyle relay.

The girls' swim team had a 3-4 win-loss record. They had many strong swimmers and many were sophomores and juniors.

In the district meet, the girls' team placed seventh out of fourteen competing teams. Although many South swimmers competed at district, Karen Kerr was the only girl to go to the state meet. She swam in the 50 yard freestyle.

Coach Brick Grayum was very pleased with both teams. "I think the boys' success was due to the fact that they participated as a team on the whole. The girls' team improved greatly from the beginning of the season and I was pleased with their progress."

"Pin, pin, pin, pin!"

This was the yell that many heard during the wrestling meets of the 1978 season- and the wrestlers did just that.

The wrestlers had a fair season with nine wins and twelve losses. The team had only three seniors: Dave Herrington, Dave Fishel, and Tim McCloud. These seniors were very strong in their technique and placed high in all their meets. The rest of the members were sophomores and juniors, so the team was considered to be fairly young.

The team placed seventh in district out of nine competing teams. Seven Saxon wrestlers placed at the district meet. Dave Herrington placed third along with Dave Fishel, Jeff Peter, Pat McCloud, and Toby Wiltse placed fourth, and Todd Phillips placed fifth with Dave Stanley right behind placing sixth.

Coach Larry Hayward said he was pleased with the team. "We made a lot of growth this year having only three seniors on the team. All around I think we had a very fine season."

A. Dave Fishel puts a strangle hold on an opponent as he tries to pin him. B. The team congratulates another member on a job well done.

Mat Rats Perform A Great Service

One group at South that did not receive much attention but performed a great service was the Mat Rats.

The Mat Rats were a group of about eight girls that kept score at wrestling meets, helped to plan the wrestling tournaments, made wall brackets of the tournament results, and made locker and wall signs for the wrestlers.

The girls that participated as Mat Rats during the 1977-78 season were: BJ Turnbull, Dyrel Bradford, Teri Schulte, Glenda Schulte, Melissa Mahoney, Lori Finn, Sue Castranova, and Jeri Lowrey. Several other girls assisted with the meets throughout the season.

The wrestling coach and Mat Rat's advisor Mr. Larry Hayward said the Mat Rats had "been a tremendous help" throughout the wrestling season.

Low Snowfall Does Not Deter Ski Club

Although ski totals were low at the beginning of the season, the determined ski club could not be kept off the slopes.

With the aid of their two advisors, Mr. Rick Esson and Ms. Rosemarie Maurer, two different ski club members planned each trip.

These trips, which were on alternating week-ends, were a variety of day, swing, and night shifts at either Mr. Hood Meadows or Hoodoo Ski Bowl.

Membership for the ski club was $1.50 which included a discount on the price of lift tickets, hot chocolate, and a one dollar discount on the bus ride. If that's inflation, we want more.

Sophs Show Good Progress

"We showed good progress during the year by beating three teams in the second half of the season which had defeated us the first time around," stated Coach Gary Snow.

The sophomore team averaged 42.4 points offensively and held opposing teams to 47.4 points. Steve Fetrow led the team with an average of 8.2 points a game, totaling an outrageous 181 points.

The squad was a very strong one at the end of the year with an outstanding record of 9 wins and 13 losses, considering they were considered an "UNDERDOG" in the valley.

J.V. Girls Move To Varsity

Many of the Girls' J.V. Basketball team members were moved up to the Varsity team by the end of the season. This was due to Varsity injuries.

Coached by Carol Chamberlin, the J.V.'s stuck with it and fought hard every game. By the end of the season however, there weren't enough girls to form a team. The last 3 games were cancelled.

At the end of the season, awards such as Most Valuable, Most Improved, Most Inspirational and the Coach's Award for Hustle and Enthusiasm, were voted on by the team members. Those receiving awards were, Ruth Neufeld, Diana Pickens, Michelle Youngman, and Kelly McGhehey, respectively.

Midwinter Night's Dream

"A Winter Night's Dream" was the theme of the annual Y.W.C.A. Snowball. Students from Salem's four high schools boogied to the sound of Bentwood Shrudders, a predominantly Sprague band which featured several special numbers by South students Don Ebel and Mike Martin. Held in Lancaster Mall, the dance lasted from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m.

South High representatives for the planning of the Snowball were Scott McKellar and Dawnette Boone.

Many memories were created before and after the dance as well as during it. Some of those experienced by South students included: walking into a restaurant to find your dress on several other girls there, ripping your pants while unlocking the car door, carrying your HEAVY date through the puddles in the mall parking lot, discovering that your date left his headlights on all night and his battery died, and arriving home with rootbeer spilled down your front.

South High Presents-"The Glass Menagerie"

February 16, 17 and 18, South's drama department presented "The Glass Menagerie" by Tennessee Williams. Mrs. Phyllis Quanbeck, who directed the production said, "The small cast did an excellent job. It was a great success."

The story, which was told in a series of flashbacks, lent itself to a dreamlike setting. Art Director Linda Poole, Scene Director Ken Jacobsen and Light Director Bob Tinnell worked together to create this effect. Technical Director of the play was Wayne Muller. Student Director was Racheal Frey and Production Director was James Kyle. Sound Design was headed by Alan Ball.

AS SEASONS CHANGE

SO DO ORGANIZATIONS

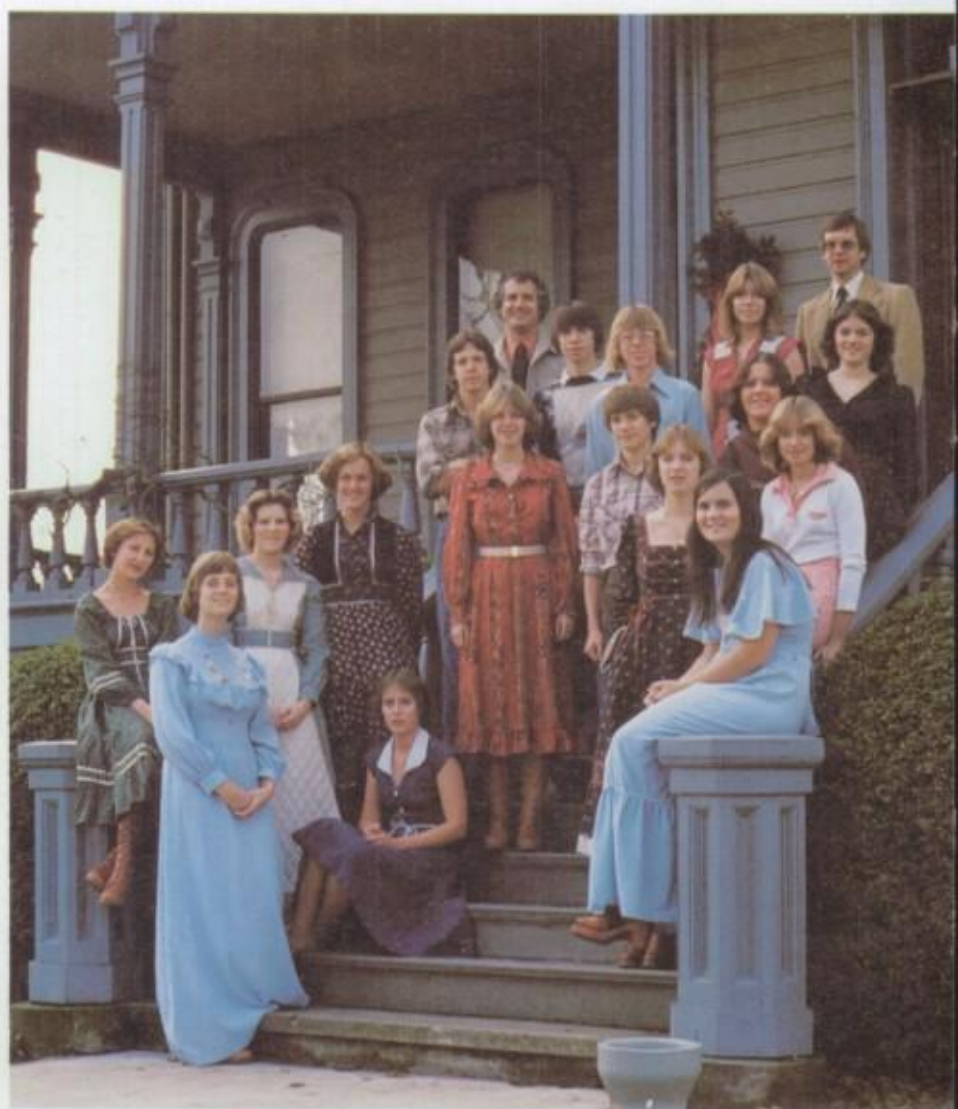

Sword And Shield Is Polished

The Sword and Shield staff was organized differently than it had been in previous years. The staff was divided into various sections with an editor in charge of each, and an individual staff for each section. The system in general worked smoothly; each editor was responsible for those staff members underneath him and accountable to the editor above him.

The various sections included sports, (David Coronel, editor) activities, (Nila Morrow, editor) and a special photography section with Sara Etzel as the editor. The photographers had an individual hierarchy, with Helen Koopman as the chief photographer. Mr. Bob McElroy served as the photography advisor. In charge of the entire organization was Kitty Wooley, with Jamie Lee as her assistant editor.

Mr. Dean Barr was heard to say many times during the year "We have a hand-picked staff, people, some of the best students in the school!"

Clypian Staff Reports

The Facts

The Clypian was more than just the school newspaper at South. A lot of work went into the production of the paper. It was sponsored by advertising and ASB funds so that all students could enjoy it free of charge. The paper gave people information about what was happening in and around the school. But it wasn't just a place to read the sports scores, it also gave students and teachers an outlet to "have their say" about school related issues.

Fourteen dedicated people made up the 1977-78 staff. Kelly Sexson, the editor, was assisted by Julie Ohmart. Mr. Rick Esson was the advisor.

Thespians On The Move

Thespians are a group of people who all have something in common. They enjoy drama and have earned at least 10 Thespian points. In order to receive one point they must be recognized as having completed 10 hours of work in the drama field either on or off stage. To be a Thespian though, they must have at least 100 hours of activity time. After a person earns 50 points they are eligible to receive an Honor Bar and be recognized by the National Thespian organization.

Brian Putnam, President of the Thespian Club, said, "This is an organization that brings people together who all have shown extra effort in drama work." The Thespians had various trips and activities such as: touring the Civic Theater in Portland, going to plays in and around the greater Willamette Valley, and going to New York City during which they toured the city and saw plays on Broadway.

Southernaires Prove Themselves Ultimate

Southernaires. What are they? Well, they are 28 highly talented and gifted people who enjoy singing. But that's not all. They're willing to sing and practice hard at what they like to do and were constantly trying to improve themselves under the direction of Mr. Mike Crawford. The group came to the choir room every first period to begin tuning those voice muscles. They would sing, be critiqued, sing, sing some more and be critiqued some more until they formed a sound comparable to one gigantic harmonized voice.

The Southernaires were a performing group. They sang at such concerts as: Optimist Jazz Festival, in which they took 1st in AAA; Pleasant Hill and Mt. Hood Jazz festivals; Christmas concert at the Capitol Building, plus numerous other festivals and concerts. The highlight of the year occurred during Spring Vacation when the group toured the San Francisco area.

On the whole, they were a select group of people and had to strive hard to achieve that which they wanted.

Five hardworking people made up this year's mime troupe, The Silent Mimority. They had a busy year performing at noon activities and at other schools.

Where could you go to buy a human slave or become a complete dictator and own a country? The American Field Service, better known as A.F.S. club, gave everyone these opportunities and more. During A.F.S. week, November 21-25, the club held a human slave sale where people donated an hour of their time to the person who bought them, they had a country sale, and had a banana split party. The group also sold candy throughout the year. All of these projects were to raise money to send students from South to other countries with the A.F.S. exchange program. It costs $2,500 plus transportation to send each student abroad.

Three students from South were Picked as finalists by the program to go to other countries as exchange students. They were Joe Byrd, who will be going to South Africa, Cathy Cooper, who will be going to Peru and Dyrel Bradford, who had not yet been informed of where she would be going at the time this book was published.

U.F.O.'s? At South? That's right, U.F.O.'s: Unidentified Foreign Objects. Actually, that description's inadequate, as the "Objects" were really students and they didn't stay "Unidentified" for long.

American Field Service, Association of Sweden Student Exchange, and Experimental International Living were the exchange programs that brought these students to Salem, where they stayed with South High students and their families for the whole school year. All the exchange students were seniors.

Ken Altrell, from Sweden, stayed with Sophomore Jeff Stuhr. Ken raved on and on about McDonald's hamburgers.

John Molin, also from Sweden, stayed with Dr. and Mrs. Gary Pederson. He got to play big brother to three American youngsters (a lot of us know what that's like).

Elisabeth Olsson, another Swedish student, spent part of her stay with Sophomore Sue Poteet and the other part with Mr. and Mrs. Morris Bergman. She especially enjoyed singing soprano in Concert Choir.

Adays Zarate, from Panama stayed first with Senior Daryl Bradford and then with Mr. and Mrs. Lou Williams. She found Citizenship II a bit of a hassle, as they didn't teach anything about Panama in the class.

Italian student Bruno Bellini stayed with Junior Beth Canning's family. He laughed when asked about American pizza.

Laurence Jacob, from France, stayed with Junior LeeAnne Miller. Her feelings about America are reflected in her poem.

Speech Team Works Hard In Competition

The speech team worked hard preparing for competition against other schools. The areas of competition were: poetry, extemporary, humor-serious, debate cross examine, oratory oxford, impromptu, expository, after dinner, and radio contemporary.

Poetry and humorous-serious are typed up, then read during competition. Extemporany and impromptu are when the student is required to make up his speech on the spur of the moment. The other catagories of speech are given from memory after many hours of practice.

In early February, a national debate tournament was held in Williamsburg, Virginia for the top debate teams in the United States. The South team, consisting of Seniors Loree Devery and Matt Kaestner, was one of the two Oregon teams chosen to compete, placing 17th of approximately 58 teams. According to Mr. Withycombe, the difference in eastern competition was like "night and day", with the eastern schools "talking four times faster than we did" and taking advantage of much vaster and readily available sources of information. Besides competing, Loree and Matt got to visit the historic places in Williamsburg and the battlefields of Yorktown. Mr. Withycombe was pleased with the team's over-all performance. He felt that they gained a lot, not only in debate, but culturally as well.

Trends Of The Times

Nothing demonstrated more clearly the passing of seasons than the rapidly changing fads. These fashions include clothes, of course. (Novelty items are included as well.)

Some clothes that "everyone who was anyone" had included: for the girls it was cowl neck shirts and sweaters, pleated pants for school, and Gunne Sax dresses for "dressing up." Stylish feet stomped around in Bass, Baretraps, and Dexters, and fashionable tresses sported barrets or combs. In jean fashions, Novas had declined, (though there were still lots around) and Pulse jeans were the rage instead.

For guys, rugby shirts were the greatest things to wear; everyone had a whole wardrobe of striped shirts. Jeans varied, Brittanias were popular, as well as BNGs. (Which stood for Brand New Generation.) Army pants were cool, and the ever popular flannel shirts were out in force during the winter.

Saxon styles included football jerseys, senior buttons, homecoming ribbons, and the red, white, and blue Saxon hats and scarves.

Concert Choir Sends Eight To All State Choir

Dedication is what a group really needs to get someplace, and the 1977-78 Concert Choir had plenty of it.

The high point of the year for both the choir and their director, Mr. Crawford, was when the choir was invited to sing at the Oregon Music Educators Association Convention. In addition, eight choir members were chosen to sing in the 400 member All State Choir at the same convention. This was the largest group of individuals that any high school in Salem sent to the convention.

The other concerts that the choir performed in were the Fall, Christmas, Winter, and Fine Arts concerts, and the Salem Choral Festival.

Southmen Show

Increase In Popularity

South Salem's Southmen showed a great deal of ability in their early concerts that developed as the year progressed. There were 33 sophomores, juniors, and seniors in the group at the beginning of the year which is an increase from the fall of the previous year.

The concerts that the Southmen performed in were: the Fall, Christmas, Winter, and Fine Arts concerts. They also sang at a choral contest at the University of Oregon.

Girls Sing With Open Hearts And Mouths

The girls who made up the Girls' Choir were very busy at forming a good sounding quality. Most came to 3rd period with open hearts, minds, and of course open mouths with which to sing. They practiced and practiced throughout the year, performing at concerts and festivals. Some of the major ones they attended were the All City Choral Festival, Fall, Winter, Christmas, and Fine Arts Concerts.

The choir, made up of 55 girls and an accompanist, were lucky in having a college student teacher from OCE take over the class for the latter half of the year. Jerry Foster had the experience of teaching under regular teaching condition plus directing the choir at some of the concerts and performances they attended during the second semester. Mr. Crawford felt that the year was a worthwhile one in which everyone prospered and, at the same time, some good quality music was heard.

Orchestra Gets Involved

The orchestra, headed by two year band director, Mr. Dave Becker, had a very up and go year. Unlike some orchestras, South's got involved in music festivals and concerts. He tried to get the orchestra as involved in music as possible and he wanted to display the musical talent, not just keep it in the school.

The orchestra was composed of 36 members (14 string and 22 wind). Incidentally, the wind players were not a part of the regular 4th period class because of the conflicting class of concert band. They had to practice outside of the class and would do so into the late hours of the night, at lunch and before school.

Some of the festivals and concerts they went to were: the Fall Pops Concert, Christmas Concert, Winter Instrumentalist Concert, and the Fine Arts Concert. They also went to the Willamette Valley String Festival. Two festivals that they competed in with full orchestra were the District Festival in Corvallis and the Mt. Hood Orchestra Festival held at Mt. Hood Community College. The highlight of the year occurred when the orchestra went to Canada with the Concert Band. Individually, 3 string players made the All State Orchestra. They were: Karen Palmer, who is President of the orchestra, Cherie Hull, and Dave Werner.

The Concert Band was very busy with their many concerts, projects, and competitions; however this didn't detract from their fine performing abilities. The 85 member band performed at the Christmas, Winter, and Fine Arts concerts as well as four football games, commencement, and three parades. One of these was the O.S.U. Band Day competition in which 40 other bands performed.

The band marched in the fall and performed in the winter and spring. Money raisers were held all year; events included the Texas citrus fruit sale and the all school Jog-a-thon. The money raised went toward a four day exchange trip to Canada and to pay off their new band uniforms.

The Salem Band Festival, the Music District Festival, and the OSU Concert Band Festival were some additional performances the band members participated in.

There were some individuals in the band that received honors of their own. Rob Leedy, Dave Benson, and Mike Martin were chosen to play in the All-State band. Donna Bell was picked for the All-State orchestra. Many students also played in the district solo contest.

Stage Band Competes In Festivals

The Stage Band was a group made up entirely of Concert Band members who were picked by audition by their director Mr. Dave Becker. This talented bunch of students rehearsed one night a week besides their two daily band classes.

The Stage Band performed in four festivals including: the OCE Jazz Festival, the Salem Jazz Festival, and two contests, one at Clackamas Community College and one at the University of Portland. They performed in the Fall, Winter, and Fine Arts Concerts, and a special concert with guest soloist Ashley Alexander, a professional from Los Angeles.

"The Stage Band is about 100% improved over last year," stated Mr. Becker, which is a fact that most students could attest to after hearing them play at noon concerts throughout the year.

Art Club Goes Aesthetic

The Art Club, sometimes better known as "The Aesthetic Generation," worked hard to get people involved in art. Their main goal for the year was to raise enough money to pay for a trip to see the King Tut Exhibit in Seattle. Fourteen people from South along with fourteen from McNary and four teachers planned to make the trip.

The club's main money raiser was at Christmas. They made over $200 painting windows for downtown businesses. They also raised money by printing the programs and posters for South's plays.

Language Clubs Visit Portland Restaurants

The four language clubs-German, French, Russian, and Spanish-were very busy during the year with various activities.

Each club ate food of the native country which they were studying. All the clubs also went to Portland to eat in a restaurant specializing in the food of their language study.

The German and Spanish clubs were involved in fund raising activities throughout the year. Gumme Barchen (German candies) were sold by the German Club, raising money partially to help finance ten students that went to Germany in the summer. The Spanish Club participated in the Jog-A-Thon and raised money to buy farewell gifts for Cathy Cooper, a South AFS student in an exchange program to Peru, and for graduating seniors.

The French Club went to see a play by a French Acting troupe. The play was "The Bald Soprano" and was done at Willamette.

The Russian Club had a Russian Scrabble Tournament and challenged the German Club to a Soccer game.

ASB Gets Active

A very determined executive council headed the workings of the student government. Their leader was President Kathy Briscoe, who reigned over student council meetings and student body activities. She was backed by Vice-President Jimmy Wiles, Secretary Kelly Sexson, and Parliamentarian Dave Connelly.

"Our Activities Committee was very successful," said Mrs. Gettis, the committee advisor. All ASB activities were organized by the committee. They planned activities periods, Homecoming, Spirit Week, After-game dances, special assemblies, and special days to liven up school life.

Building and Grounds Committee helped out with the school litter problem. They again looked into fixing the fountain in the courtyard, finally allocating some monies to this project.

The Constitution was given a closer look by the Constitution Revision Committee, who worked to update the school constitution.

Administrators were prompted into action concerning the challenge tests for Consumer and Personal Finance classes by the Curriculum Committee.

The Elections and Rules Committee was in charge of all ASB elections. Their job included setting up the polls and the counting of ballots. Turnout for the elections was about 65-75% of the student body.

All ASB monies were the responsibility of the Finance and Fundraising Committee. They had fundraising projects throughout the year such as the sale of Homecoming mums and football jerseys.

The Liason Committee was the go-between for students, administrators and the community. They had a Senior Citizens day which involved students taking a senior citizen to classes with them for a morning.

The Welfare and Publicity Committee kept students posted on ASB activities. They also sent get well cards to students and teachers who had been sick a week or more.

South Chapter Places

Second In State

The South Chapter of F.B.L.A. typed, accounted, shorthanded, and parliamentary procedured its way into second place in the state. Its 28 members sold hats and scarves, candy bars, Saxon bumper stickers, poinsettias, win-a-cake tickets, and doughnuts to raise funds to go to their conventions. There they competed with F.B.L.A. members from all over Oregon in the major areas of business. Besides being South Chapter President, Al Gibson was also State President, while Teri Lannigan was named State Vice President at the Portland Conference in April.

The 1978 National Honor Society was large and consisted of both Juniors and Seniors.

An applicant for the National Honor Society had to be carefully screened before being admitted to the society. A student applying must be involved in many activities along with having a grade point average of 3.2. Applicants filled out an application which was screened by the faculty and approved by a committee.

The National Honor Society officers were: Brig Walton, President; Loree Devery, Vice-president; Cathy Cooper, Secretary; Dan Miles, Treasurer.

The graduating seniors received the honor of wearing a gold tassel on their caps at commencement.

Varsity Rally Thought Their Teams Were The Champions

Who will, who will rock you? The Varsity Rally rocked and rolled and lead the Saxon teams to victory with much spirit and enthusiasm. It may have looked easy, but hard work and lots of practice went into their routines. Pep assemblies were organized by these six girls, along with the J.V. rally. They also baked Saxon birthday cakes, painted posters, supported all school athletics and raised the overall school spirit.

The team was made up of six girls: Elizabeth Davis, Jennifer Drips, Jennifer Gunderson, Cindy Reason, Tammy Seamster, and Pam Sparks, with Jennifer Drips as rally captain. All agreed that it was a great year for the Saxons.

Rally Works To Win

Who baked Saxon birthday cakes? Who slaved over posters for the halls and gym? Who hosted the Capital Chevrolet grand opening, worked at the Fourth of July dunk tank at the fair, stood in the rain on the football field, organized pep assemblies and spirit weeks, initiated the basketball secret pals, and supported the J.V. athletes at their games and meets? The J.V. Rally, of course!

This rally was composed of five hard-working and extremely spirited girls: Tracie Hanchett, Cathy Heald, LeeAnne Miller, Aimee MacTaggart, and Karen Overstreet. These girls, together with the Varsity Rally, devoted countless hours to fund raising, poster making, organizing, practicing, and supporting the teams.

Reb Debs Change To Sweethearts

Because of the new Title IX ruling the name "Reb Deb" was changed to "Sweetheart". The requirements did not change, however, and neither did the much deserved honor these girls received. They were chosen by the Rally squads throughout football and basketball season for their enthusiasm and support of sport events. Sweetheart of the Year was chosen by the student body, and on February 21 Cindy Peter was crowned by last year's Reb Deb of the Year, Sue Webb. Honorary Sweetheart was Mr. Bob Voigt.

Saxonetts Participate In Competition And Fundraising Activities

People may have thought of the Saxonetts as just a performing group, but actually they did much more. Some of the Saxonetts' other activities included participation in money raising events such as the Jog-a-Thon and March-a-Thon, taking tickets, selling programs, buttons and cushions at games.

The Saxonetts performed routines they had made up themselves at many games, assemblies, competitions. They competed at both Jefferson High and David Douglas High and hosted the Single A and Double A State Drill Team Competition at South Salem High.

The Saxonetts practiced daily in their first period class and also held practices before school. As a reward for their hard practice the girls often went out to breakfast or lunch before a performance.

South Wins Region

The MAA 150 Club, as the math club was referred to, consisted of a sundry assortment of math jocks and non-math jocks alike. The main function of the club was to encourage student participation in the exams sponsored during the year. Six Atlantic Pacific Tests were offered, but the biggie of the year was the National Math Test. Scores from both exams were compared to those from other schools. On the latter test South's two teams placed first and fifth in state competition, first in the region (comprised of 11 states and provinces) and eleventh in the nation out of the 186 schools in the ATPAC league. Dave Montague did very well as an individual, he placed second in state with his score. Understatedly, the math "coaches" were pleased with the results.

Central Administration Keeps Busy

School superintendent William Kendrick and his staff, along with the Salem schoolboard, were very busy the entire year. Their goal was to make this school district a better one in which the whole community would prosper. Mr. Bruce Rafn, assistant superintendent, said, "I feel through the comprehensive service plan and the study of school district discipline we can produce kids the people want. These will help by improving district policy and local school philosophy and goals."

The school also helpfully advanced with new ideas brought up at LSAC committee meetings. One of these new to the school district was the adoption of text books for new ideas.

Administration Works With Students

South's administration added a new member this year. Mrs. Gretta Gettis took the place of Miss Heringer as a Pupil Personnel Assistant. She was in charge of student activities. Mr. Moberg was also a Pupil Personnel Assistant. He was in charge of discipline.

All of the administrators had a specific duty, but their main goal was to work as a team and have a smooth running school that could be enjoyed by all students, as well as to prepare them for the future.

Mr. Ediger, principal, headed the administrative staff. He worked alongside Mr. Heater and Mr. Davenport, the assistant principals.

New Position Created In Secretarial Staff

The secretarial staff was a vital part of the school administration. The secretaries answered the phone, relayed messages, and took care of the typing and filing needs, as well as attending to other necessary tasks. Most of the secretaries were new; various members of the staff were shuffled around to fill different positions. Serving as a competency advisor to the student body was Mrs. Baltimore. This position was created to help students with the new graduation requirements.

Cooks And Custodians Work Behind The Scenes

Head Cook Sue Sheldon and her assistants came to work every morning to get the food ready for lunch. She had to also clean the tables after food fights and scrape and wash the dishes. New this year was the invention of different lunch lines for the type of food students wanted.

The Building and Maintenance Engineers (custodians) would also come to work early every morning. They would also do certain jobs, such as keeping the school at the right temperature and keeping machines running properly, and sweep floors.

The matron would also help by making sure the school was neat and tidy, especially after lunch.

Counselors Put Emphasis On Group Guidance

Along with all the other departments at South, the Counseling Department implemented the district model program. More emphasis was put on group guidance and the development of preventive counseling, instead of trying to solve student's problems after they had happened. "It will be much more effective," said Mrs. Judy Patterson, the Head of the Guidance Department, "and the new program will provide better services to all students."

Peer counseling was developed to help students solve their own problems and work together in developing their interpersonal skills.

The counselors were trying to help students schedule their classes so they would have all their requirements by graduation. This not only involved the seniors but the juniors and sophomores as well.

In the 1977-78 year more students and teachers were making use of the career resource center for finding information on colleges and jobs.

The counselors also were trying to organize workshops on how to study since many seniors said this was a big problem.

Working with the counselors was Patricia Smith, a practicum counselor from O.S.U. She was optimistic about the counseling program at South and said that "working with Judy (Mrs. Patterson) will be an excellent experience and the exposure to all the aspects of the department will help me in future positions".

"Mainstream"

Is Successful

"It's kind of like a home base, a place for the kids to identify with themselves," explained Mr. Larry Hayward, Head of the Special Education Department. He was speaking of the Special Ed. class itself, where the students involved in the program spent an average of two classes a day. The rest of their class time was spent in other classrooms, engaged in regular curriculum with fellow students. This was called "Mainstream" project.

The Special Education Department also expanded, acquiring a resource room and three assistants. The resource room was a special room set aside for developing reading and mathematical skills. The new assistants were Mrs. Mildred Wright, Miss Laura Rice, and Mrs. Nancy Deglow. They, together with Mr. Hayward, made up the Special Education staff.

Business Is Their Business

In the business department, teachers worked hard at preparing students for the working world through courses such as typing, accounting, shorthand, business law, personal finance, and many others. These classes were designed to teach students such things as balancing a check book, filing income tax forms, using the correct format for typing term papers and business letters, and many other things necessary to the business world. Most of the business classes were offered as electives; personal finance and consumer finance were the only required courses in the business field.

Model Media Put Into Action

"Our main emphasis this year was putting the model library/media program to work," said Mrs. Judy Martin, Head Librarian. This program consisted of several objectives, some being: to help students function independently in the media center, to introduce students to a variety of media, and to teach students to use the center to its fullest potential. Instruction in library usage, which was taught to many classes by Mrs. Martin and her staff, played a big part in implementing the program.

Mr. Mark Wallig, Assistant Librarian, said that A.V. usage increased greatly. "On the average we served 75 students daily. That doesn't include the equipment that was checked out." He then muttered something under his breath about "going bananas."

The media program also expanded to include Mr. Rick Esson's Mass Media class, and Mrs. Helen Hoffines and Mrs. Elsie Ries incorporated media into several of their health and creative writing classes.

Mr. Dave Becker and Mr. Mike Crawford both thought the music department had grown this year. Mr. Becker was the band director, working with both concert and stage band. Concert band consisted of 87 students who played and marched at football games, performed at South's concerts, and took a field trip to Canada in April. They were nicknamed "coneheads" because of their tall hats. Stage band performed at basketball games, pep assemblies, and special lunchtime concerts.

Mr. Crawford was the choir instructor, directing the Saxon choir (formerly Girl's Choir), Saxon Singers (formerly Southmen), concert choir, and South-ernaires. Several of his choirs received state-wide recognition.

Model Plan Initiated In English Department

The 1977-78 year was the year of the implementation of the model plan curriculum in South High's English Department. Along with these curriculum changes also came many changes in teachers. Two new teachers came to South at the beginning of the year, these were Mr. Bob Voight and Mr. Steve Lady. When Mr. Voight retired early in the year he was replaced by Mr. Jim Hindman. Later Mr. Voight returned to teach part time when Mr. Hindman resigned. Mr. Lady resigned at the semester and was replaced by two part time teachers: Mrs. Anne Terry and Mr. Jim Grant. A new technical director, Mr. Wayne Muller, also came to the department at the second semester.

The model plan was designed to coordinate the teaching of English in all Salem high schools. Emphasis was placed upon giving the student opportunities to meet the competency requirements, to gain and to improve their skills in reading, writing, listening and speaking, and to improve their vocabulary growth.

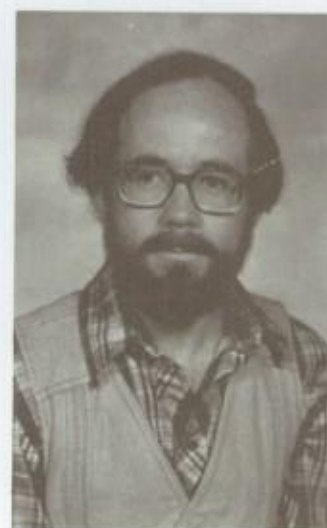

Mrs. Lida Halvorsen, Head of the English Department said, "We have a very strong English Department and South High students have many opportunities to become proficient in the language arts areas."

South High's math department continued its superior model math program again this year. The classes ranged from personal math all the way to the advanced class of calculus. Head of the Department Dick Mosman had a fine staff of teachers. Some of the activities the math department were involved in were the annual vector (darts) tournament sponsored by the Elementary Functions class and the all new MAA 150 club advised by Steve DeHaas. The Social Studies department, which is one of the largest in the school, taught students a wide variety of things.

Most Sophomores enrolled in 20th Century History which taught just that: 20th Century History. A typical class would start around the year 1896 and move through the Spanish-American War, WWI and II and end somewhere around the year 1960.

Juniors studied American Citizenship which was essentially the same thing as 20th Century History, only a little more advanced.

Senior Social Studies classes were probably the most interesting of them all and had to do with life's problems and difficulties and how to cope with them. These problems included such things as sex, marriage, and other family problems.

"I think South High has a strong Science Department. We have an opportunity to make this district's model program better," said Mr. Bob Tinnel, the Head of the Science Department.

South High was chosen to implement the model program for all high schools in Salem.

The hope of the Science Department was to change the classes enough to give the students better science experiences and provide a wider range program for a better background in science.

There was an overload of biology students that crowded some of the science classes, (Man's Flight was one example of this overcrowding). Two new teachers were brought in to handle the extra students. These were Mr. Ed Olson and Mr. Bob Huddleston. A third teacher was hired at second semester.

Home Economics Department Expands Into The Community

Mrs. Alma Wells, the head of the Home Economics Department, tried to get more students off campus on field trips and working on jobs in the community. This was one of the goals of the department. Others included trying to include the rest of the community in the classes, having more field trips to different community resources, and improving attendance by using different teaching methods.

"The spirit of the students is a lot better than I have seen it in ages," said Mrs. Wells. The students showed enthusiasm in their projects and worked toward the Style Reviews that they had in April.

The cooking section has had some interesting classes such as Main Dish Cookery and Pastry and Preservation. These provided variety in the cooking department.

Most of the classes were divided into two levels: the beginners and the advanced. This provided maximum learning opportunities for each student.

Industrial Arts Department

Gets Students Involved

Getting students involved in the community and the real world was the main goal of the Industrial Arts department this year. Among the many classes offered in this department, including woodworking classes taught by Mr. Lloyd Johnson to skills in electronics taught by Mr. Robert McElroy, there were many opportunities for students to get involved. The construction class taught by Mr. Don Lounsbury built a house at 1640 Church Street. Drafting Students considered some of the planning problems in the city of Salem, and their main project of the year was planning a new stadium for the Portland Trailblazers. Through these projects, students came in contact with real people, which helped prepare them for jobs beyond high school.

As Seasons Change S

Do Spring Activities

A lot of hard work and dedication went into the production of "Camelot," which included hours and hours of rehearsal and construction of props and costumes. Mrs. Quanbeck, one of the play's co-directors, said that the play was a success because "... so much of all of us went into it." The other co-director was Mr. Crawford.

This year the advanced acting classes worked with John Alberts, South's artist-in-residence, in the construction of some of the props and furniture used in the play. South is the only high school in Oregon to have an artist-in-residence.

Student director Brian Putnam and student production manager Colleen Keane also contributed to the successfulness of "Camelot," as did choreographer Leana Fletchally, who chalked up "Camelot" as her first play with South. The student directors of dance were Shannon Loch and Andy Kay. Mr. Becker directed the orchestra.

Kelly Carlisle, who portrayed King Arthur, said, "I feel that everybody was successful because we all grew, not at the same rate, but we all reached our goals."

Jr.-Sr. Prom A Big Success

The tinkle of champagne glasses, light laughter drifting across a crowded room, the swish of skirts on a polished floor, soft music, and flowers all melt together to comprise a romantic evening in Paris. The Junior-Senior Prom was one such evening, but the components were slightly modernized. The champagne glasses were plastic and contained Hawaiian Punch and 7-up, the polished floor belonged to the Elks Club, the "soft" music was supplied by a Portland group called "Smoke," and the flowers came from a nearby florist.

The committee that planned and executed "Une Soiree a Paris" was composed of Jamie Lee, chairman; Joanne Chamberlain and Peggy Snyder, fund raising; Karri Neitzel and Darcy Wenz, decorations; Debbie Carlson and Debbie Olson, refreshments; Lorrie Harvey, publicity and programs; and Debbie Olson, cleanup.

Outstanding Students Of The Month

Each month the Welfare and Publicity committee nominated three boys and three girls for Outstanding Students of the Month. They got the names from both student and teacher recommendations. Outstanding Students were voted on by the entire student body. Nominees were picked because of their participation in various school activities such as sports, ASB, music and general school involvement. This year the school choose Kelly Sexson and Rod Jones for September; Cindy Peter and Ken Valach for October; Elizabeth Davis and Kelly Carlisle for November; Judy Williams and Steve Heald for December; Jeanne Jackson and Don Ebel for January; Colleen Keane and Steve Schmitz for February; Loree Devery and Jimmy Wiles for March; Sally Benninghoff and Clancy Devery for April; and JoLynn Acarregui and Brad Wetherbee for May. Cindy Peter and Rod Jones were picked as Outstanding Students of the Year.

Optimists And Rotarians Honored Throughout School Year

Optimists were not picked on a regular basis but each Optimist was elected according to the title selected by the Optimist Club. The Optimists were chosen by the administration and Liaison Committee working together.

The method for nominating Rotarians included having each faculty member select five students that they thought contributed the most leadership to the school. All of these names were then put into a hat and five candidates were chosen. These names were put on a ballot that was given to the student council for a vote. After the Rotarian was picked, this student met every Wednesday for a month with the Rotary Club for a meeting and lunch at the Black Angus.

Girls' Softball Added To South's Sport's

South was fortunate to have a new sport added to its already existing list of spring sports. This new sport was Girls' Softball. There were two teams, Varsity and J.V. The Varsity team was coached by Ms. Perkins while Mr. McLoughlin coached the J.V. team.

For their first season out, the Varsity team did fairly well. They ended the season with a 4-6, win-loss, record. Ms. Perkins seemed pleased with the progress of the team. "I was really happy about the way the team performed. It was a real fun team to coach," Ms. Perkins said.

There were many players that received special awards. Most Valuable Player went to sophomore Jessica Stradtman, most improved was given to Helen Koopman, most inspirational to Michelle Youngman and the "hustler" award went to Tina Ordonez. Best defensive and best offensive players were Ruth Neufeld and Linda Watrous, respectively.

Girls' And Boys' Tennis Place 2nd And 4th

Tennis is the only game where love means nothing and South's opponents were mostly head over rackets in love.

The girls' tennis team had a smashing 7-1, win-loss record. The team as a whole took second in district with four players qualifying to go to the state meet. These four girls were Joanne Chamberlain, a junior, Pam Sparks and Rachel Frey seniors, and sophomore Sara Paterson. The team won many tough games and their win-loss record showed this. Coach May was pleased with the season. "The girls really won some tough games and did well the whole season."

The boys' team faired well this season also. They pulled down a 6-3 valley league record. They placed fourth out of nine teams at district. Many players did well at district. The doubles team consisting of Matt Burr and Eric Swenson, both sophomores, made it to the quarter finals at district. Greg Heinz went to state but lost in the second round with a score of 3 games to four. Coach Nagle was pleased with the over-all season and especially with district. "The boys did exceptionally well at district and it pleased me to see them do so well." All in all, it was a "love"-ly season for all.

Debbie also placed second in both the 400m and the 100m. Cindy Peter placed second in the 3000m, and Laurie Schaecher placed fifth in the 100m. Baccalaureate Holds Meaningful Message

Baccalaureate is the traditional religious service held for the graduating seniors. It was held in the South-Leslie auditorium, May 25, 1978, at 8:00 p.m.

Steinberg from St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Reverend Steinberg's theme for his sermon was, "For Everything, A Season".

A special congratulation to the graduate of the year

Mrs. Lida Halvorsen

from the yearbook staff

These were "wild and crazy" times, carefree summer days that we will remember with satisfaction and perhaps a touch of nostalgia.

There were winter days, too;
those times we felt so buried beneath snowdrifts that we scarcely had the will to struggle our way to the surface.

This lane bordered by trees, it knew my life.
 The cherry tree donned with blossoms was like the inception of my being and all the many new events
 I had acquired years before.
 Just then, a bright ray of sunshine came streaming from a break in the dense forest, and as I walked the sun became brighter on the lane.
 It seemed like the rate of knowledge I had,
 and it frightened me.
 I looked beyond the derelict area in which I walked,
 and saw a glen of old, musty oak trees.
 Moss was everywhere, damp and ancient,
 covering the trees, the ground, and the sky.
 And then as I realized what this lane meant to me,
 I walked in a much slower fashion;
 I was still in sunshine and there
 there still was more to go.

Amy Albrich

Now, after a glance at the year, let us realize that there is still "more to go." There will be more sunshine and more snow ahead of us. Let us consider wisely what we have learned from others, and go forward to meet both with childish enthusiasm.

In the end they always say good-bye . . . So we, the 1977-1978 Sword and Shield Annual Staff, say GOOD-BYE.
